"I am very excited to join the Angel Films team. During my career, I've worked in almost every position of a film crew: from lightning technician in my youth and lately as CEO and producer of my own production company. I have been lucky to have many life and business learning stages in my career and now I'm getting my dream team together. I have always been a huge fan of the hard-working personnel in film business. The attitude, stamina and mental strength of those people is in a league of its own. I'm looking forward to providing the best, most qualified and maintained production equipment in the world for the ever changing market in Finland.
